Thoughts from our Stakeholders

“Volunteer.bm is a great resource and was especially helpful when I first moved to Bermuda. It allows me to see all of the amazing volunteer opportunities in one easily accessible place. I am able to find activities that are of interest to me and my skills and I look on Volunteer.bm frequently to see what new opportunities are posted. Volunteer.bm not only connects me with charities on the island, but also allows me to feel like a contributing member of the Bermuda community. I recommend it to anyone moving to the island, to anyone looking to build their resume, and to anyone who wants to make a difference in the community. It is the easiest way to pinpoint the right volunteer activity for you!”

“As a company we were proud of our community giving programme (which involved giving money and goods and services in-kind.) But we wanted to do more. That's when we turned to The Centre on Philanthropy. They were great! They encouraged us to start a volunteer programme for our employees. They helped us write a new Volunteering Policy, conducted staff workshops and advised how they could get engaged with the many charities. The response was very positive. Some employees renewed their commitment to the charity of their choice and others became excited about how they could help in the community.”

- Corporate Member

“Since becoming an Executive Director in October 2008, The Centre on Philanthropy has been an invaluable resource to me. On several occasions, I have been encouraged to “drop in” if I had any questions and each time that I have, the Team has always been supportive and helpful, often sharing resources and experience along the way. Their website is chock full of helpful resources for people managing non-profits and their forward thinking attitude means that their information is current, relevant and immediately useful. Their educational programme, which includes webinars, has given me the competence and confidence to work alongside my Board in our organisation's continued development. As well, the webinars put us in direct contact with some of the world's leading non-profit organisers and managers. The unique role that The Centre on Philanthropy plays in supporting the hundreds of non-profit organisation in Bermuda means that it is often “in the background” offering support for our continued growth and development, while not being recognized for the excellent work that they do in supporting our entire community. “

Chairman's Report

What an interesting year it has been for the global philanthropic community! A severe economic collapse was the catalyst for the revamp of several charitable organisations and the prescription for creative, progressive thinking.

Bermuda has not been immune and, like many other nonprofits, The Centre on Philanthropy needed to reprioritise budgets and programmes. Thus, some initiatives were put on the backburner, but the Board has still been incredibly pleased about what The Centre staff was able to accomplish, and in their ability to adapt to an ever-changing environment. The 2008/09 highlights listed on page 6 are just a small sampling of what the team achieved this past year, so I am indeed excited to see what The Centre family of staff, volunteers, and members will do during the coming months.

The 3-year strategic plan developed last year by Root Cause, while always evolving in order to meet the needs of our local community, guides the programmes and activities of our organisation. Thus, the coming phase will see us focus on, amongst other goals, advancing our sector integration strategy. I feel this goal is especially important, and it is indeed one of the 4 pillars of The Centre's mission.

The majority of Third Sector stakeholders have embraced the importance of collaboration, and yet, due to the day-to-day requirements of running our organisations, most of us have not had the time or energy to devote to this issue. In that vein, The Centre is working to facilitate collaboration among multiple stakeholder groups in order to address priority social issues. We have formed 2 issue based forums, which bring together individuals from different parts of the community to find solutions to a specific problem. Developing a community foundation and the need for a more integrated technology platform for Bermuda's nonprofit sector are currently being discussed by volunteer forum members.

Additionally, we have been asked to assist the Inter-Agency Committee to deliver a survey of Bermuda's social agencies, which will ultimately serve as a gap analysis of services offered to Bermuda's community. And, our goal of increasing collaboration between Third Sector stakeholder groups will see The Centre focus more on advocacy this year and we are working with volunteers and Board members to identify issues and solidify tactics to move forward.

These strategies will help to further our vision of seeing more partnerships between charities, individuals, companies, and the Government in order to build a more caring and giving Bermuda.

Our Board is one such area where these 'partnerships' can bloom, as we are diligent in ensuring that all of our stakeholder groups are represented and able to voice ideas and concerns about both The Centre's direction and Bermuda's nonprofit sector as a whole. During FY 2009, we were pleased to further diversify our Board by welcoming our first Government representative, Kennette Robinson, as well as Reverend Paul Voisin, Dr. Melvin Bassett, and Cheryl Harney. A few individuals stepped down from The Centre's Board, and at this time I'd like to thank Judith Burgess, Dawn Griffiths, and Alan Richardson for their contributions.

All of our Board Members play a major part in providing guidance and leadership and The Centre is very thankful for their efforts. A big 'thank you' to our committed staff and dedicated volunteers is also in order. Their undying passion for The Centre's vision drives them to continuously deliver a high level of service to our members.

And speaking of you, our members - your unwavering support propels us to work harder for you and for the entire community. On behalf of the entire Board, I thank you for your commitment to helping build a better Bermuda.

Executive Director's Report

In some ways it seems that I was just preparing my report for the 2008 annual report – time certainly has flown by. And when I think of what we have done since last year, I wonder how we were able to do it all in just 12 months.

This year, in addition to becoming certified by the Bermuda National Standards Committee, The Centre on Philanthropy's full schedule of activities included the opening of Bermuda's first nonprofit resource centre, publishing a book on the history of philanthropy, and teaching over 100 young Bermudians aged 5 – 18 about giving back! Your incredible support made all of these achievements possible.

The major highlight of the year - The 'Power of One' conference was held on February 28 and 29. We were hoping to build upon the success of our first conference, held in June 2007, and I believe we did just that. The Power of One conference had more workshops, speakers, and attendees, and was proclaimed as an empowering and motivating event. We are already planning our next conference, being held in February 2011, and while we wait for that, we have many great things scheduled for 2010.

New Education and Training series: After a year of development, our new training programme launched in October 2009. This year's education platform will focus on 4 key areas in the nonprofit sector - Governance, Capacity Building, Financial Management, and Fundraising. Each topic will be taught over a progressive series of workshops, so that participants build on what they've learned. We are very excited about the possibilities of this new approach, and believe it will be an important step towards raising the overall effectiveness of Bermuda's nonprofit community.

Engage: The Engage programme launched in 2009 with two Centre-managed Community Days and several consultations with various corporate/foundation members to provide them with advice on developing their philanthropic plans. This programme will expand during FY 2010 to include the Give Back Games; a beach Olympics competition between companies that raises money for Bermuda's charities.

Knowledge and Resource Centres: The newly revamped online knowledge centre will launch with a new look, a user-friendly search system, and a database of updated materials. The online system will also be linked to the on-site resource centre, enabling visitors to the site to see which available books match their topic of interest.

Hopefully you will support our activities and take advantage of these programmes as much as you did over the last year, because 2009 was a great year for member participation. In total, 513 individuals took advantage of workshops, forums, teleconferences, conference events, training sessions, and other activities offered by The Centre, with 228 organisations benefitting from their staff's increased knowledge. This represents 88% of our membership, an increase of 5% from last year!

We are excited about what 2010 has to offer, and in fact, I eagerly anticipate all I will have to share with you when preparing this report in a year's time.

Sincerely,

Pamela Barit Nolan
Executive Director

Treasurer's Report

The Centre heads into the new fiscal year with a growing membership and renewed commitment from its donors and the community at large. Membership revenue doubled during fiscal 2009, while sponsorship revenue rose significantly due to corporate funding of The Centre's bi-annual Third Sector conference held in February.

With respect to operations, staffing and occupancy costs remained consistent at approximately half of the annual operating budget, an allocation substantiated by The Centre's primary mission as a service provider to the Third Sector. To better facilitate these services, The Centre expanded its office space during fiscal year 2009. The new space houses a well-stocked resource library, sponsored by a generous grant from the Bank of Bermuda Foundation. It provides a neutral meeting environment for the staff and community, and includes a reception area for people coming to receive services.

As in prior years, The Centre benefited greatly from professional fees donated by several key service providers. This generosity continues to be integral to The Centre's normal course of operations. From a reporting perspective, the fair value measurement of donated goods and services ensures the financial position of The Centre is properly reflected to stakeholders by disclosing the true operational costs of the organisation.

Finally, the accompanying historic five year summary of operations is intended to serve as a quick and useful reference for evaluating The Centre's financial and strategic direction during this period. The Board promotes transparency in all sectors of our community and demonstrates this value through a consistent and complete disclosure of The Centre's financial position.

I would like to thank Pamela Barit Nolan, her staff and the Finance & Investment Committee for their valued support throughout the year.

Curtis Dickinson
Treasurer

The audited financial statements for the year ended June 30, 2009 are available in electronic format on The Centre's website or in hard copy at The Centre's offices.

FY 2009 Programme Highlights and Upcoming Plans

A Year in Review... A Year to Preview

Each year the annual report lists our objectives for the new financial year. Last year, 21 goals were stated for 2009, and 85% of these were achieved. As we move into 2010, we'd like to share some highlights of our successes:

Objective: Hold the 2nd Third Sector Conference

The Centre on Philanthropy's Third Sector Conference, The Power of One, saw 250 individuals participate in the two-day event. Over 30 local and international speakers facilitated the conference's twenty-five workshops. The participants were from over 100 organisations, including nonprofits, companies, foundations, and churches. All in attendance agreed that it was an amazing opportunity to tackle key issues for Bermuda's charitable sector, with 94% saying the event was good, very good or excellent. The next conference will be held in February 2011 and planning for this event, including selecting speakers and topics, will begin in FY 2010.

Objective: Hold 2 Centre-Managed Community Days bringing companies and non-profits together to create positive change

Community days held in October 2008 and April 2009 saw over 50 individuals from 6 companies working at many projects across the island. Seven charities benefited from this corps of volunteers who engaged in tasks including gardening, painting, clean-ups, and clean-outs! This year, we've already successfully held a Community Day for summer students and have plans for two additional events in the fall and spring.

Objective: Pilot a Civic Responsibility Curriculum in 3 schools as part of the Giving Starts Here programme

Giving Starts Here, a programme to teach Bermuda's youngest residents about giving, continued this year with primary schools receiving resource boxes of philanthropy-inspired materials, including class lessons and games. Although many of the schools used The Giving Box, three in particular - Northlands, Paget, and Purvis - made special efforts to use the resources and implemented philanthropic messages throughout their school activities. Northlands especially was very excited about the Giving Starts Here programme, and arranged for The Centre to present to every single class. Additionally, The Centre developed a senior school civic responsibility curriculum, which The Berkeley Institute and The Education Centre used as part of their Social Studies programmes. This year, our goal is to continue reaching young people through this programme, and via an additional initiative, the Capital G Youth Give.

Objective: Develop the Leadership Development Programme for Nonprofit Executive Staff

In 2009, we held a focus group to determine what training is needed for Bermuda's nonprofit community. As a result of these meetings, The Centre worked to develop a new Training and Education programme that will launch this year. Topics including governance, human resources, and financial management will each be covered in a progressive, four-part series, instructed by local and international professionals, ensuring nonprofit staff will have the opportunity to attain a high level of knowledge in these key areas.

Objectives for FY 2010

- Consult with 3 companies on introducing or improving an Employer Supported Volunteer Programme
- Increase usage by nonprofits of Volunteer.bm by 25%
- Ensure 115 nonprofits benefit from volunteer connections through Volunteer.bm
- Increase total membership by 10%
- Increase usage of the Third Sector Resource Centre by 25%
- Continue implementing the Giving Starts Here programme by working with 3 schools
- Ensure 375 individuals take advantage of our training and education workshops
- Celebrate National Volunteer Day on December 5th
- Pilot the 'More than Money' programme with 2 corporate and 2 nonprofit partners
- Develop an integrated technology platform that will bring The Centre's stakeholder groups together by integrating the components of our current technology systems
- Develop a plan for a Community Foundation
- Increase individuals registered on Volunteer.bm to 3700
- Facilitate 3 active issue-based forums
- Increase number of profiles on the donor directory by 25%
- Increase number of profiles on the nonprofit directory by 5%
